It was, in fact, Awareness through Communication which provided the entire SJC family with "Togetherness". It is through these three concepts that all of us have improved ourselves, individually, and the school, collectively. The theme of ACT, then, brought these concepts into focus. It must be noted, however, that each one of us has joined hand-in-hand to create the present atmosphere. If only this spirit can maintain itself, the future of the school and all the by-products of it will be, in one word, tremendous!

This is your window to the workings of ACT . . .

FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL

Blessed with splendid weather, the students of S.J.C., back from a long vacation, were full of pep and exuberance on this—the first day of the 1977-1978 school-year. Basically a day of orientation, students, both old and new, joined in opening the new school year. Owing to the fact that the weather was pleasant, the entire student body set their minds on making this—the 77th Anniversary a memorable and eventful one.

With the presence of Reverend Father William R. Behringer, from the Marianist community in Dayton, the entire student body joined hand-in-hand in the opening mass which enlightened the spirits of the students, faculty, and friends. It was at this mass that the theme of this year—ACT—was emphasized time and again. It was also at this mass that Bro. Leo Kraft, a long-time Marianist teacher at S.J.C. celebrated his 50th year in the Society of Mary.

The very first "I'd-like-to-get-to-know-you" Parent-Teacher Meeting served to iron out any differences, solve any agonizing problems, and dedicate oneself for the better ment of S.J.C. This occasion brought many parents, both old and new, and provided for a very candid orientation for the parents.

These innocent creatures seem to be exhibiting excruciating pain. But, not so! They're having the greatest fun in the world: they're having their annual physical check-up held in the school auditorium. The entire student body was examined by a group of physicians. The Physical Examination lasted virtually all day and, coupled with the extremely pleasant weather, it was a great accomplishment and a harbinger to continued success throughout the entire school year.

STUDENT COUNCIL WORKSHOP

In an effort to strengthen the forces of its theme, ACT, the Student Council sponsored several workshops in the course of the year. The primary objective of these workshops was to provide for better understanding amongst the students. In addition to this, these workshops were open to neighboring schools in order to provide for better inter-school relationships. Ideas for the coming year were formulated and discussed in these workshops.

The first dance held at S.J.C. this year was held on Oct. 8 and was sponsored by the Social Committee. In a society where social relations play a great part in the experience of an entire educational process, this event was a good beginning. Not only was the dance itself a great success, but also the clean-up which followed the dance was an "instant clean-up", accomplished in a mere 30 minutes—creating a record in the history of S.J.C. Much credit is due to the Social Chairman for this great smash success!

Despite a relatively late start, the Red Feather Drive, an annual charity drive proved very successful. The high school students displayed great enthusiasm in going out and sacrificing their time. This charity effort, the very first of the current school-year, exhibited how much social and spiritual life the students possess. Special efforts by the grade-school, supervised by the upperclassmen, proved very fortunate and successful.

CHINATOWN DONTAKU FESTIVAL

St. Joseph College participated in a big community celebration—the opening of the new street "Honmachi Dōori" connecting Chinatown and Motomachi Street—on November 26 and 27, 1977. This Dontaku Festival featured special attractions such as a parade, bazaar, bargain sale, and a concert. The parents, students, and teachers of St. Joseph College conducted a Bingo game for the public. Also, they sold hamburgers, hotdogs, and cupcakes for this occasion. The cupcakes were especially liked by the people, mostly Japanese. About 2,000 cupcakes were prepared and baked, and in no time all of them were sold on these days. This festive project had indeed brought a closer bond between the Yokohama Community and St. Joseph College under the motto of the festival "fureai" (mutual understanding).

BONFIRE

The night of November 23 was chosen for the Bonfire, an annual event sponsored by the SJC Student Council. The event was carried under the motto of ACT. The three elements of ACT were clearly manifested by the undying cooperation of the high school students.

The festival included several diverse booths set up by the different committees, clubs, and the high-school classes. The Spook House in the gymnasium sponsored by the Senior Business English Class was one of the many attractions. The yakitori, Sloppy Joes, and other delicacies served as great nourishment during the chilly night. In addition to the food, the numerous games featured were enjoyed by all. One of the most amusing and thrilling games was the sponge-throwing contest put on by the Sports Committee, and provided an opportunity for people to take revenge on some of the victims.

The success of the evening was evident from the number of attendants from neighboring schools. Consequently, the entire event was something very gratifying to everyone who spent some time at the Bonfire.

X'MAS DINNER DANCE

The 1977 Christmas Dinner Dance, sponsored by the SJC Mother's Club, was held at the Isogo Prince Hotel in Yokohama on December 10th. In spite of the chilly weather, the party, MC'ed by Mr. E. H. Eric, an alumnus of SJC, drew an attendance of close to four hundred people. From six o'clock to midnight, the guests entertained themselves by dancing and by the lively atmosphere of the night. Furthermore, the climax of the event occurred when the drawing of the raffle took place. Everyone anxiously listened as Mr. Eric began reading off the winning numbers. The lucky ones got their share and the others felt contented with the intense amusement of the night.

SENIOR PRODUCTION

This year, the Seniors presented a unique and yet dramatic adaption of Rabindranath Tagore's short story, THE RUNAWAY. The production which took place on December 20 under the direction of the Senior English Instructor, Mr. Arthur Stavrinaky, featured the songs and stories of India. The plot was centered around a young boy who keeps running away from home. During one of his escapades, the boy, Tara, comes across an old man, who becomes fond of the runaway. A marriage is prepared for Tara and the daughter of the old man. All marriage preparations are made, but to everybody's dismay, Tara does it again—he runs away.

Students from neighboring schools, parents, and the general public interested in Tagore came to watch this superb presentation. The audience, later, remarked that the cast, which included several from Saint Maur, was excellent. A big hand to all who participated.

GRADE SCHOOL CHRISTMAS ASSEMBLY

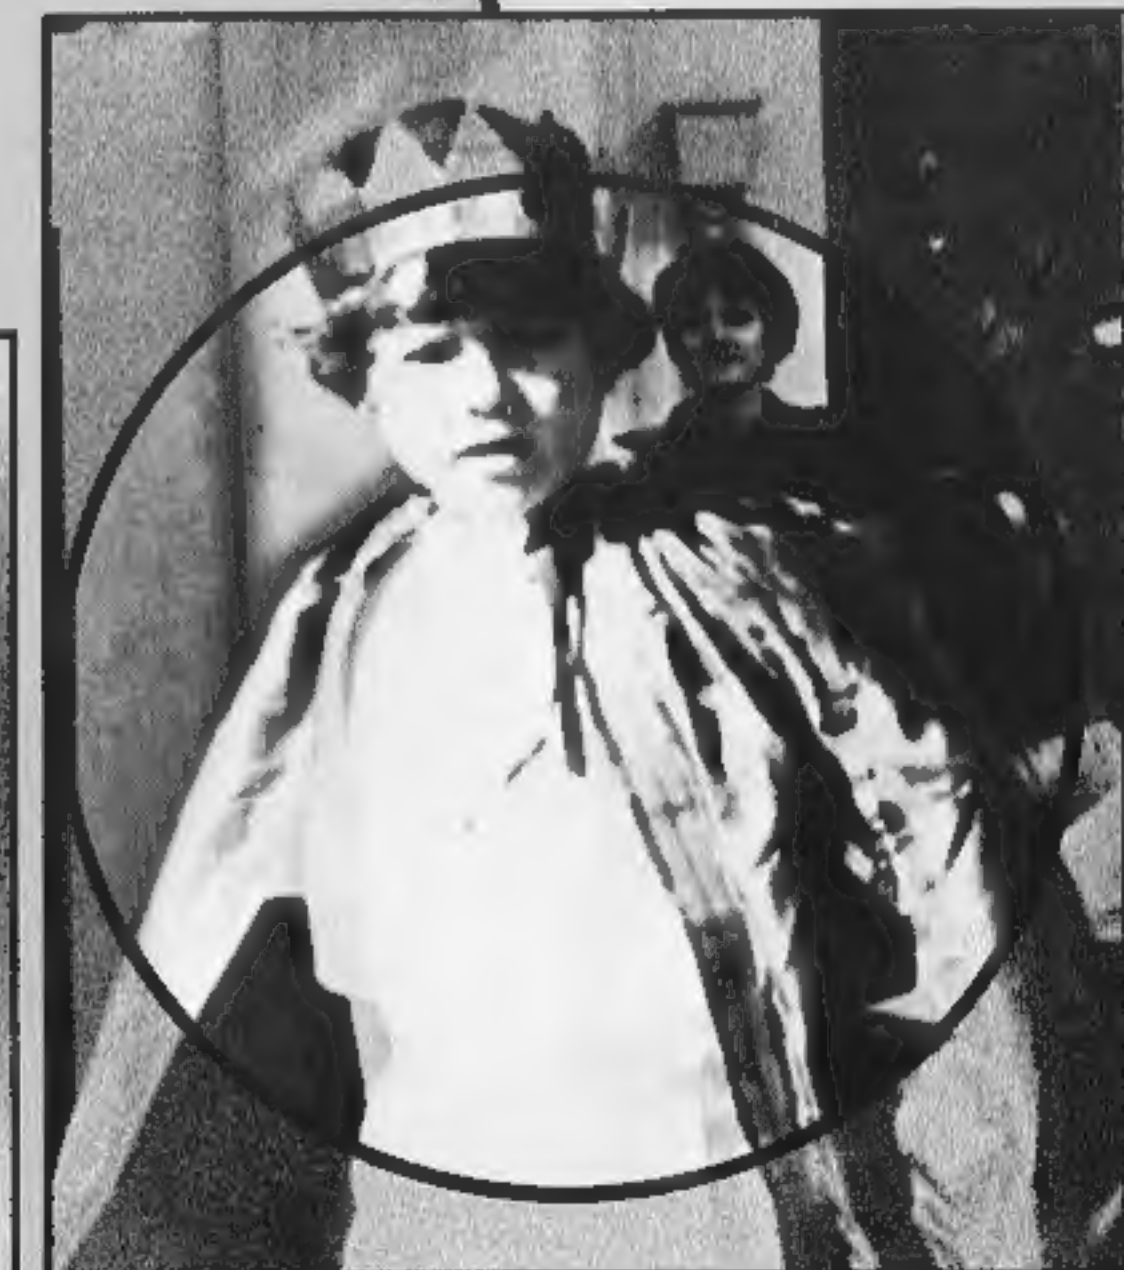

The Grade School Christmas Assembly was held on December 21st, one day after the Senior Production. The program included skits performed by several classes, selections of the SJC Choir, and the highlight of the day—a play which was put on by Grade 8. The active participation of students from Grades 1-8 exhibited the talents in our younger students. The presentations, too, were good examples of what students are capable of doing when properly motivated.

Parents, friends, and teachers took time out to see this one-hour assembly. The general opinion of the audience was that the future Senior Productions will be programs of perfection if the students keep at it.

CHRISTMAS ORPHAN PARTY

The Sodality and Interact Clubs, two of the most active service clubs in SJC sponsored a joint Christmas Party for orphans on December 18. The moderators and members of both clubs worked hard in preparing for this good-will event. Entertaining some fifty orphans who came from Kofu Kodomoen, an orphanage in Yokohama, both the hosts and the hosted enjoyed the party. The program included carols, basketball and dodgeball games, and refreshments. This was all topped by the distributing of gifts to the children. In the season of Christmas, SJC's spirit of good-will and peace radiated once again as a result of this successful event.

RETREAT

On the first three days of February, SJC students participated in the annual Retreat held on the school campus. The guest speaker, a long-time retreat favorite, was Father James Mifsud. Unlike past years, in which the retreats were held in spring, the 1978 Retreat took place at the beginning of the Second Semester. This year's retreat, like all in the past, proved to be very beneficial to the students, who, for one full day, put their books and studies on their shelves and gained greater insight into life and its realities.

The general feeling amongst the students was very favorable. Some students went as far as saying that the school should provide two such retreat programs a year—one in fall and one in spring. What becomes of this proposal is yet to be seen, however, this was probably the most refreshing event of the entire year for SJC students.

W.A.S.C.

The WASC (Western Association of Schools and Colleges) made their visitation to Saint Joseph College during the week of March 6-10. A group of seven, one from California, and the others from international schools in Japan made their rounds around the school, sharing words of praise and advice to students, parents, and members of the faculty.

This visitation made the Student Council, both of the Grade School and of the High School, teachers, and parents work tediously in compiling two books which were presented to the committee. Much work was put in this project during the first part of the school year. The committee was highly impressed by the Santos Center, a project which they had recommended during their last visit to the school. While there were many commendations, the committee made many recommendations for the school to consider. The entire week was undoubtedly a very tense one for all concerned. The whole school, actually, was put through a tedious test. What the future has in store for all of us depends on how we portrayed ourselves during this one week.

ST. JOSEPH DAY

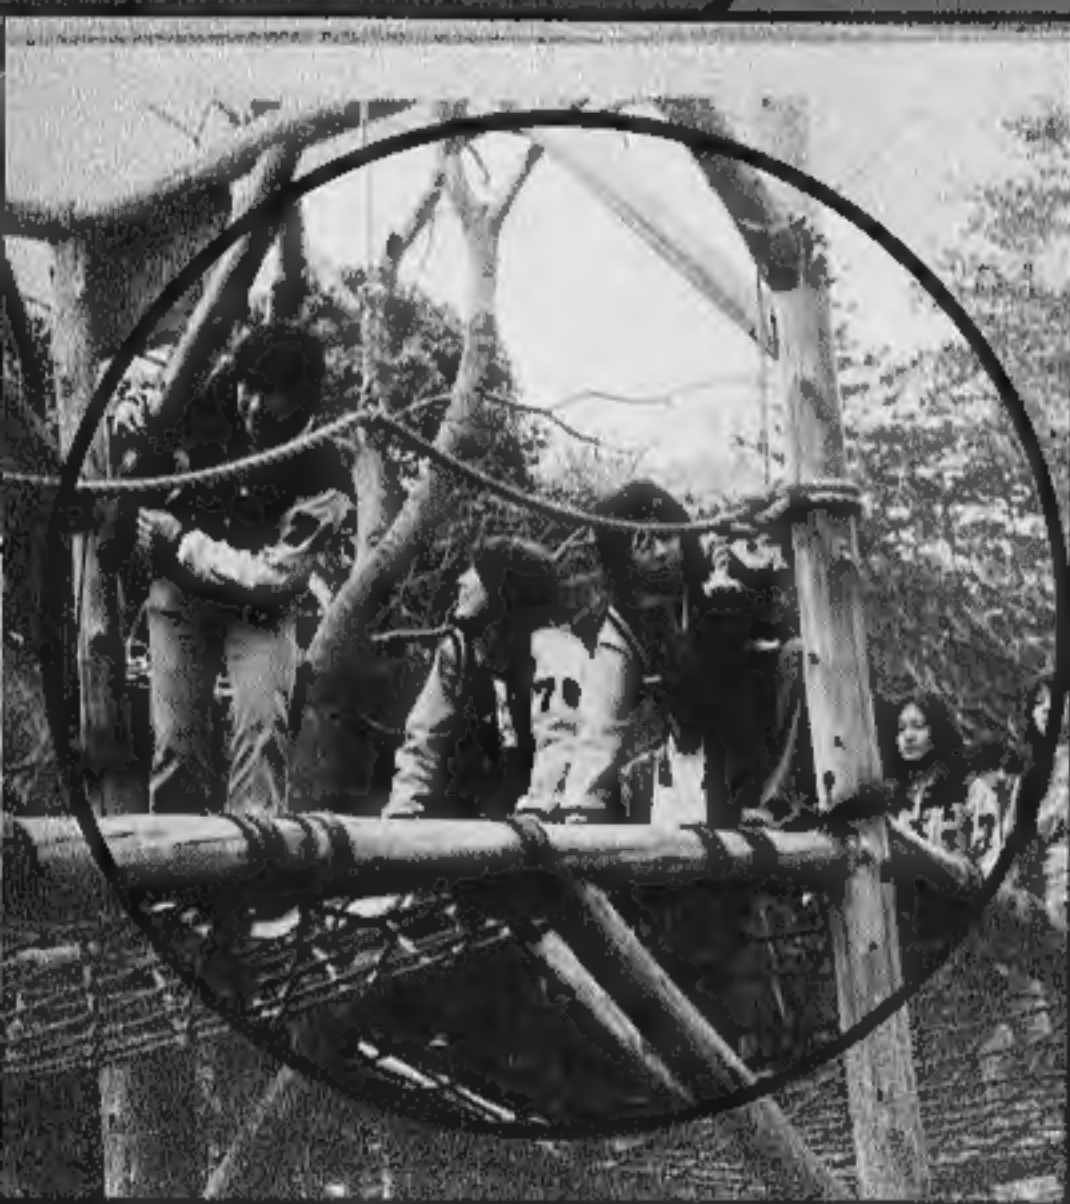

Hailed as a "great experience", the Sophomore Class's performance held on March 9 was well received. The occasion was held in connection with St. Joseph Day, held on the next day. Directed by Mr. Peurifoy, the musical drama was, as one faculty member put it, "A thing of the times—a portrayal of the real today."

The plot of the drama centered on a young boy who was dissatisfied with his present life. In search of fame and glory, he embarked on a journey to Providence. It is there that he found his purpose for living. He came to the realization that life is a long and enduring journey, yet, a meaningful experience.

Parents, members of the faculty, and the WASC visiting committee, as well as the students witnessed this successful event. Words of praise and approbation were expressed to all those who participated in putting on this presentation.

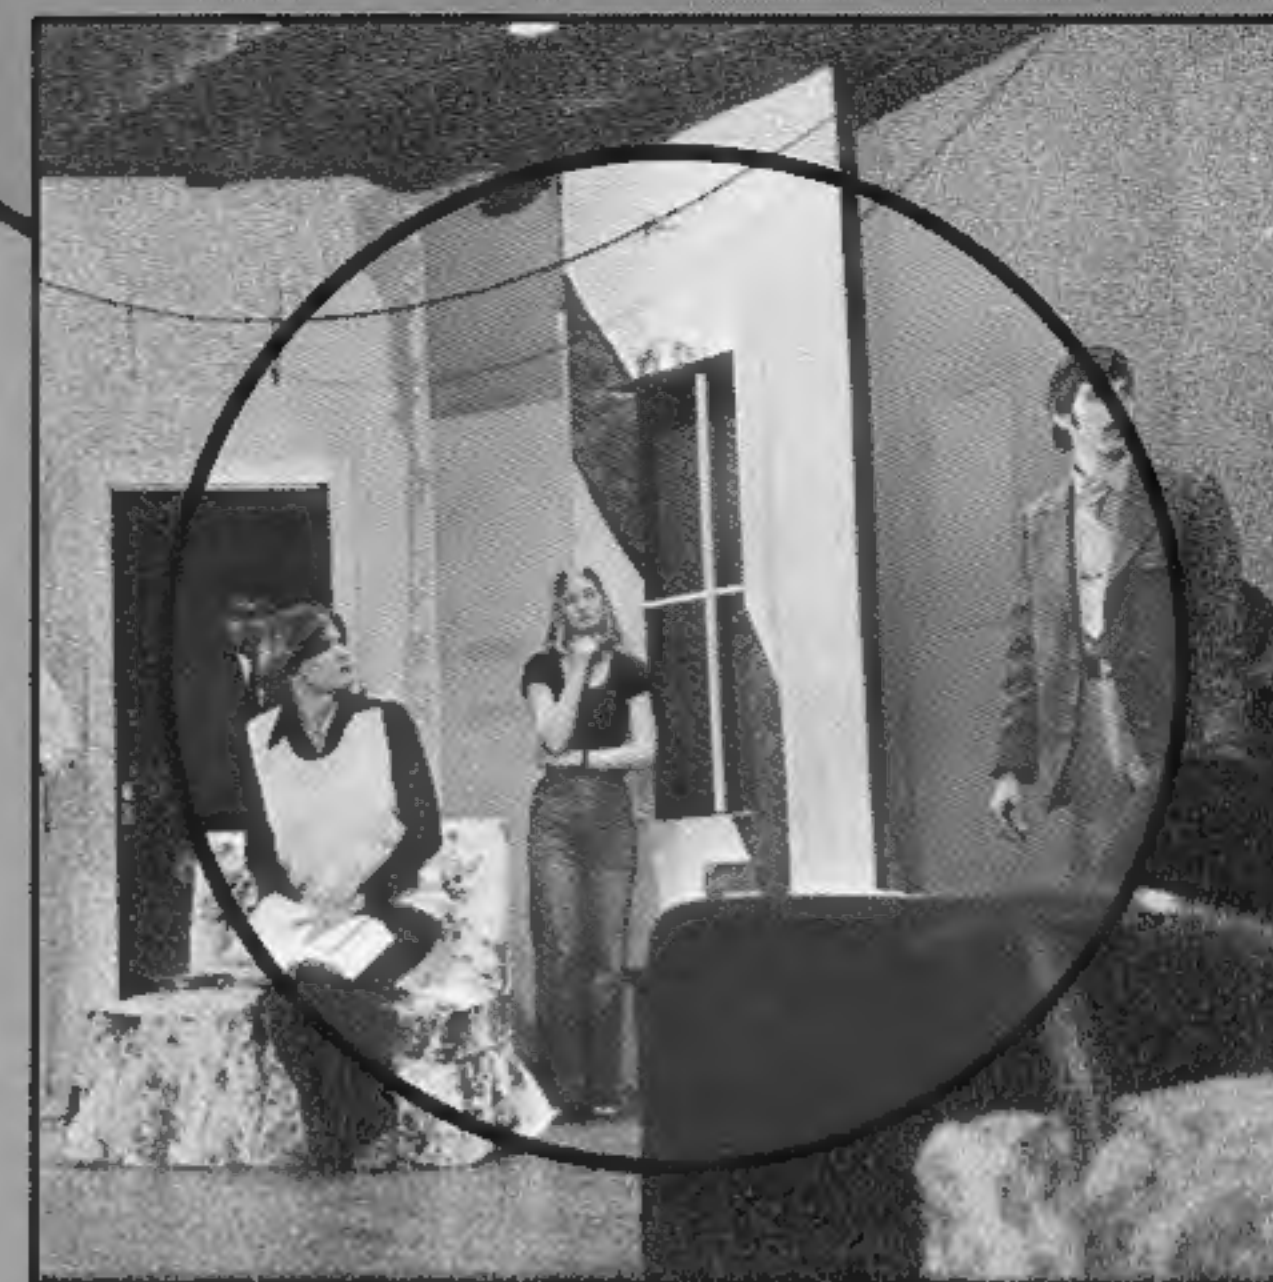

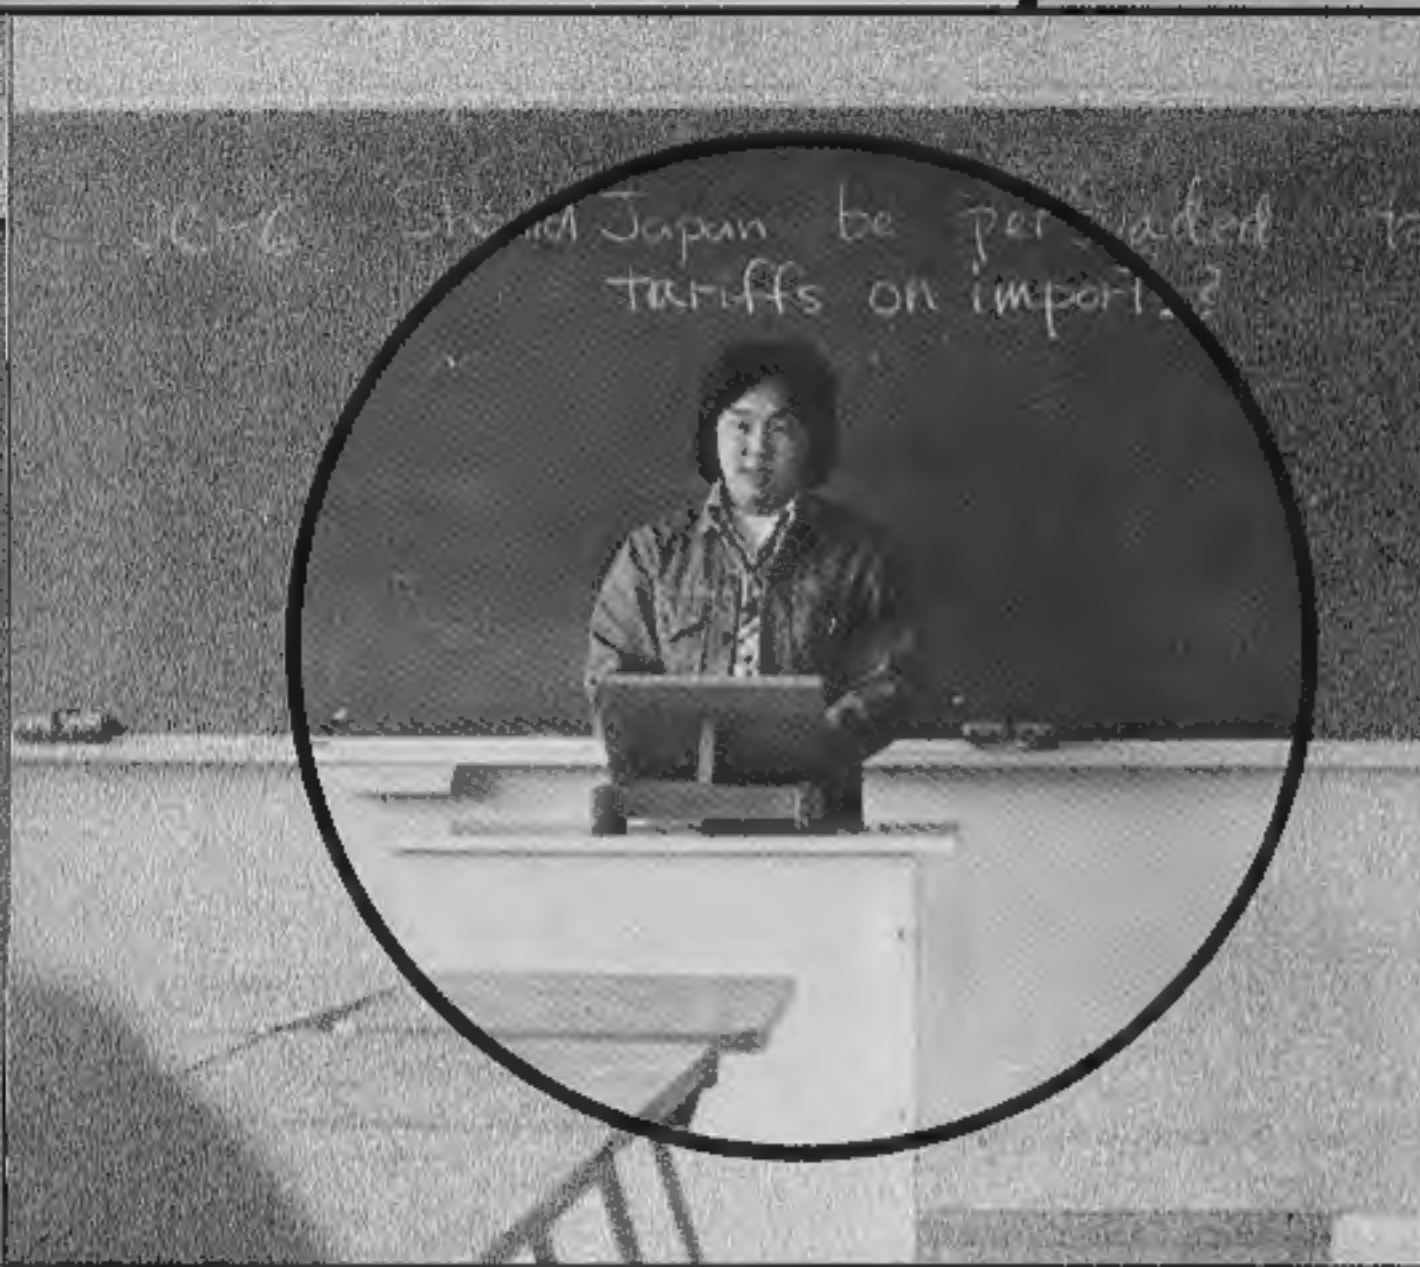

SOCIAL-WELFARE EXCURSION

The Social-Welfare Excursion to Hakone Field Athletics on March 18 was both organized and directed as an integral part of the Student Council education program. More than fifty students and adults readily participated to develop interpersonal relations through cooperation and group coordination. Environed by nature, the facilities at the Field Athletics provided the participants with numerous obstacles which enabled them to train their minds and bodies through good sportsmanship. Under the motto "Good Fun for a sound body: Sound body for a sound mind: Sound mind is good fun", the Social-Welfare excursion certainly was one of the greatest accomplishments made during this school year.

ROCK CONCERT

Together with the Bingo and Food Fair (April 1 and 2), the Welfare Committee of St. Joseph College sponsored a Rock Concert in the auditorium. The event manifested the strong bonds of solidarity among the students, teachers, and parents. The outsiders who participated in the Bingo games and the Rock Concert seemed well contented with the amusement of the Bingo games and the performance of the musician of the bands.

SPEECH CONTEST

The Annual Speech Contest was held on April 8, 1978 at Seishin International School. Despite the fact that some of the most-talented SJC students were unable to participate due to their prior commitments, the number of participants in this contest was far greater than ever was expected.

The contest was open to all international schools in the Kanto Plains region. It should be especially noted that despite the fact that SJC students have been ridiculed of their spoken English, the loyal students put all this aside, and manifested their fidelity to the school by putting to use all that they possessed. There were countless excellent speeches made by students from grades 9-12, and it is hoped that this active participation in such inter-school activities continues in the future.

Track And Field Day 4/29/28

The track and field day was held on April 29th under clear skies. Considered to be one of the most lasting communicating media among parents, faculty, and students, it succeeded in acquiring everyone's appreciation of sports. Students from Grades one to twelve were divided into four teams, Blue, Red, White, and Yellow and vied to be in first place. Many of the amusing events of the day are still alive in our memories.

Student Council

The Student Council is, year by year, becoming more of an integral part of the daily lives of students. This year, the student organization, founded as its theme for the year the motto of "ACT", standing for Awareness, Communication, & Togetherness, going a little farther than the previous year in striving to keep the spirit of Togetherness. The major project this year was the preparation of the student report for the Western Association of Schools & Colleges (WASC). Aside from this, the Student Council worked on its routine activities and added momentum to the drive for increased activity with neighboring schools. This year's student organization provided for social activities, physical and scholastic improvements, and strived to improve relations between the school and the neighboring community. The increased quantity and, needless to say, quality of dances, get-togethers, and workshops served to keep the theme of ACT alive.

Welfare

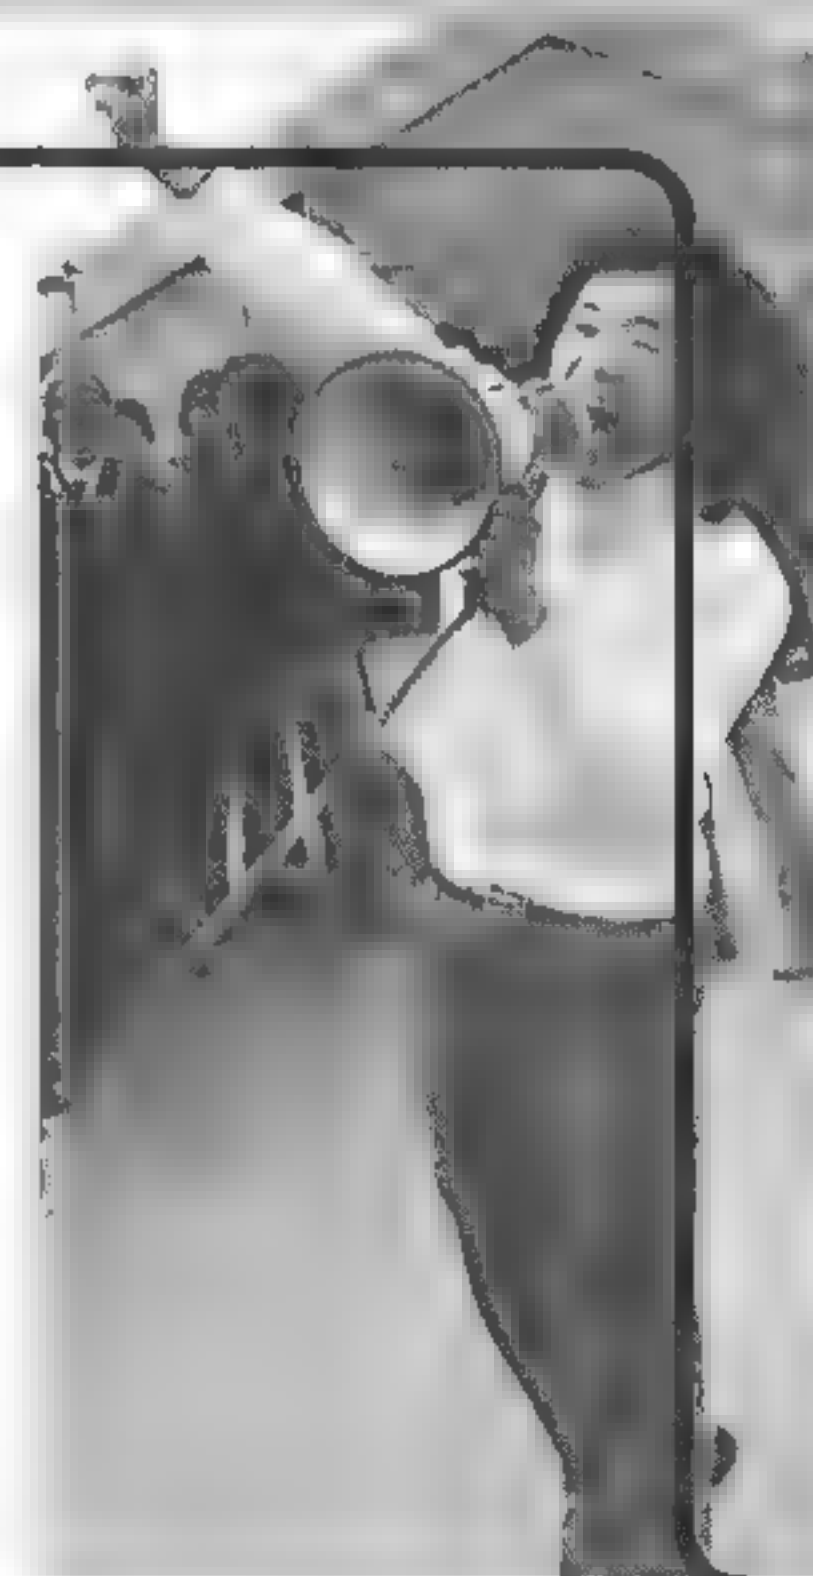

The Welfare Committee came into full limelight on two occasions this year. The efforts of this organization proved both successful and entertaining for all. The first event was the Bonfire held in November, which is becoming an annual event. The second event was their assistance given to the parents during the yearly Bingo For-Fair held this year in April. With the close cooperation of students, parents, and teachers, this event provided energy-packed entertainment for the public, both young and old. The success of these two events, of course, seems to obscure the other efforts of the Welfare Committee which were of lesser significance. In any case, this year, the Welfare Committee proved by its actions that it's the people behind the work that ensure a successful and eventful year.

Sports

The Sports Committee proved its existence this year. Compared with previous years, the number of intramural events and activities sponsored by the committee was incredible! The year began with the softball intramural and ended with the softball intramural. There were bowling, soccer, basketball, badminton, and rugby intramurals. The greatest accomplishment which the committee made this year was the revival of the pep rallies. The committee, having realized the fact that the spirit of participation in sports games was at an all time low, reorganized the pep rally. The entire high school student body met every Friday after lunch on the roof, yelling their heads off practicing the cheers. The number of participants gradually increased as the number of pep rallies increased. The committee is looking forward to a 100% student participation next year.

Chairman: Peter Kosaka

Social

The Social Committee this year not only provided the students with ample opportunities to participate in dances and an excursion, but has accomplished to magnify the social functions of individuals and groups. Thoughtful and skillful members worked industriously to guarantee that "the goal and reality are one". This was the primary objective the committee carried out throughout the year. It sponsored four successful dances, promptly participated during the Bonfire, and organized a field trip to Hakone Field Athletics which served to train everyone in good sportsmanship. The committee, through its activities established and maintained to be one of the most contributory organizations of the Student Council.

Publicity

Have you ever wondered who it is that makes all the colorful and eye-catching posters for school activities? This is actually the job of the Publicity Committee, which, this year, is composed of a large majority of sophomores and juniors. The publicizing of countless extra-curricular activities such as dances, dramatic presentations, bake sales, sports events, and contests is the job of this committee. It would certainly not be an exaggeration to say that part of the credit of the successful events belongs to the Publicity Committee and its members!

The task of this committee was not only to feature music and entertainment, but also to provide news headlines and information of the daily activities. Requests and popular Top 40 songs were also played. Despite some disruptions encountered during the course of the year, the daily programs were well received by all students. This, the Radio Committee, was one of the active and dynamic service committees serving the school.

Sodality

The Sodality Club, led by a new moderator and spirited officers, revived the former spirit of "serve-with-a-smile", with each member sacrificing his time in all events throughout the year. In November, the club sponsored a movie, and in December it sponsored a dance party with the Interact Club to raise funds for the annual Orphan Christmas Party which took place on December 18. In the second semester, the club went on an excursion to Gotemba to prepare for the annual Easter Retreat. Besides these major events, the club was responsible for the First Friday Masses and the decoration of the school lobby during Christmas and Easter. The Sodality Club has, after all these events, become known as a real club to better the spiritual aspect of every student.

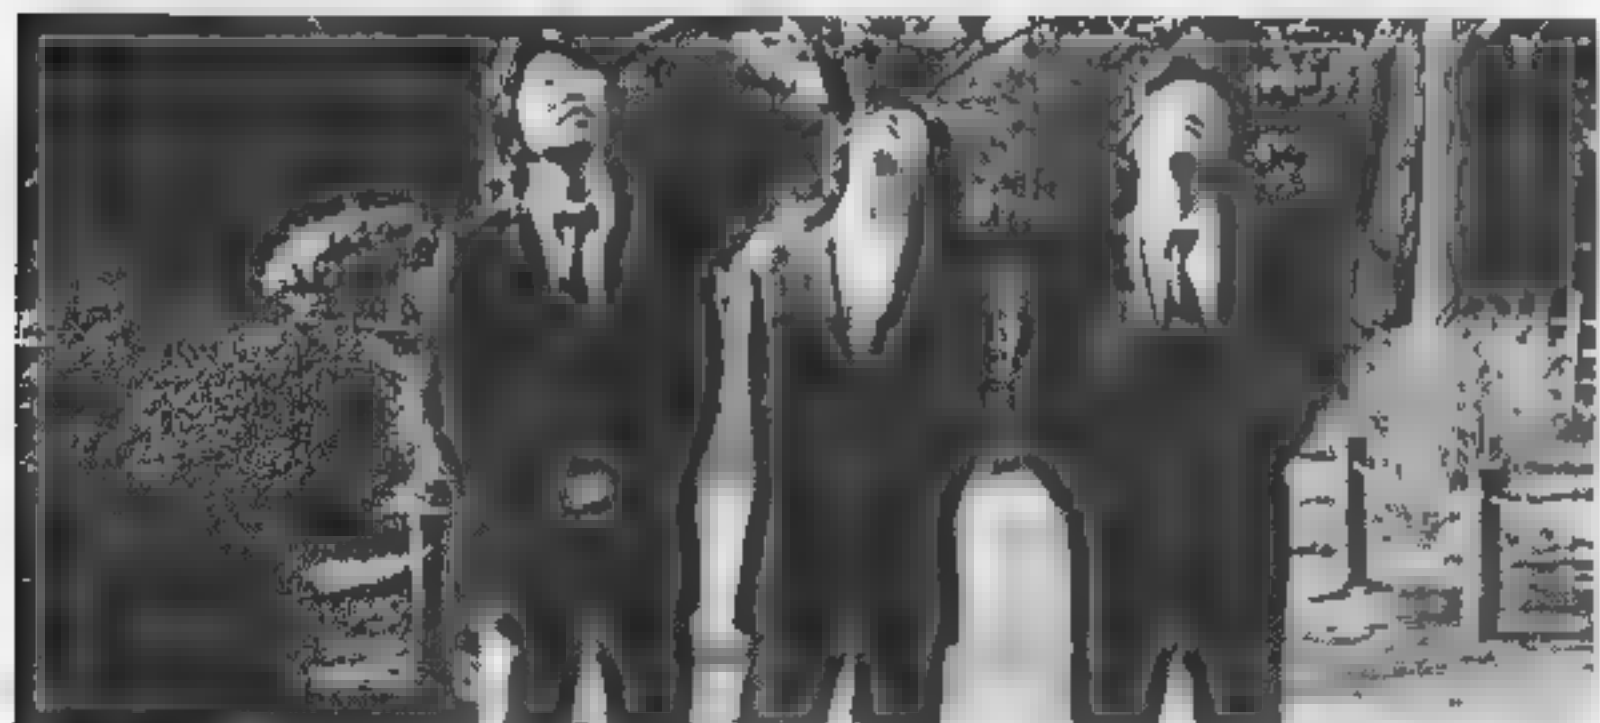

Interact Club

This year the Interact Club enhanced its image as a community club. Many events were organized to make closer bonds between the Yokohama community and St. Joseph College students.

The first important event was the Interact-Sodality Charity Dance held on December 3. The purpose was to raise funds for the Orphanage Party which was held on December 17. During the Christmas vacation, some members of the Club visited Taiwan and made friendly contacts with people there. The climactic event of the club was held in May when the SJC Interact Club sponsored the annual International Understanding Gathering. With the undivided assistance of Mr. Yamamoto and Mr. Yamaguchi, who served as advisors to the club, the Interact Club had a very eventful year.

The main objective of this two-night trip was to develop each individual's skills in photography and also to enjoy the beautiful nature of Japan.

Another important project was the annual Photo Contest held in spring. The contest was a good chance for the young photographers to display their techniques as well as their originality.

Senior Scouts

The first mission of the Senior Scouts this year was to take charge of the school parking lot for motorcycles. Due to the increased number of students attending school by motorcycle, the school administration designated a parking area for motorcycles. The Senior Scouts were to direct the traffic every morning at the beginning of the school year.

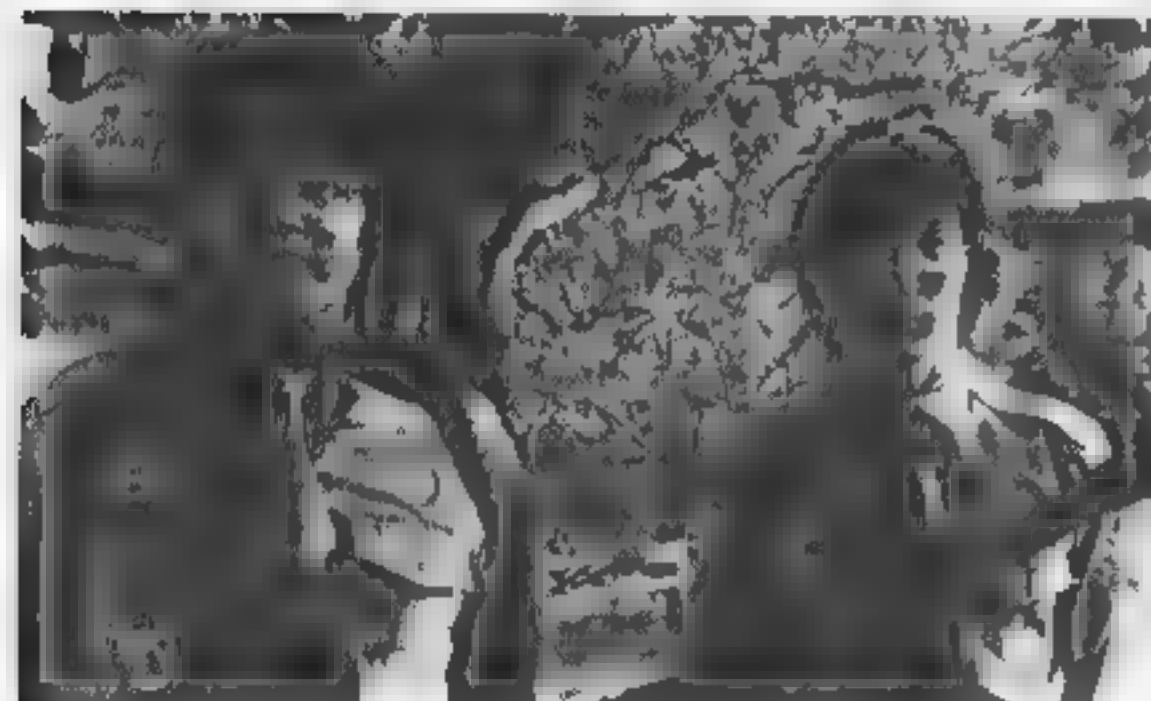

Even though the Senior Scouts had a successful start this year with twelve members, their first planned camp was not so successful. They had arranged to have it during the Thanksgiving holidays but due to the train strike, the plan had to be abandoned. As a consequence, the Scouts decided to gear all their efforts to the success of the Bonfire sponsored by the Student Council on November 23. The Senior Scouts took care of the fire. The Scouts performed their duty very well and provided the main attraction as well as the "heat" for that chilly night in November.

A New Approach

One of the school's major publications, the Chronicle, went through a significant change in its format. The Chronicle was originally a school newspaper published every quarter. This year, the Chronicle became a magazine comprised of 20 pages. Since it was a new attempt, the first publication was issued in March. The new Chronicle included the past year's chronology, essays, poems, and many attractive photographs. The magazine contained contributions from the students as well as from the teachers. Even though the staff was only able to issue two publications this year, they successfully accomplished their objective "Quality, not quantity."

Bored, I decided to look down at the chess board. There it was, a messed up confusion upon the 64 squares:

White king said to the white queen,
"We'll have a battle, we'll win it clean."
Black king cried, "We've overheard,"
"So go out and fight that white herd."

The game got started, pieces gotta go. The battle's taking place and pieces making pace; And they all rambled out on 64 squares

"Go forth, horse, out to fourth square"
"I'm weary of worry but the game goes on"
"Take a look there's a lack of good defense"
... look at the two dull faces on the side of the board and guess who's the winner on the 64 squares.

Boy Scouts

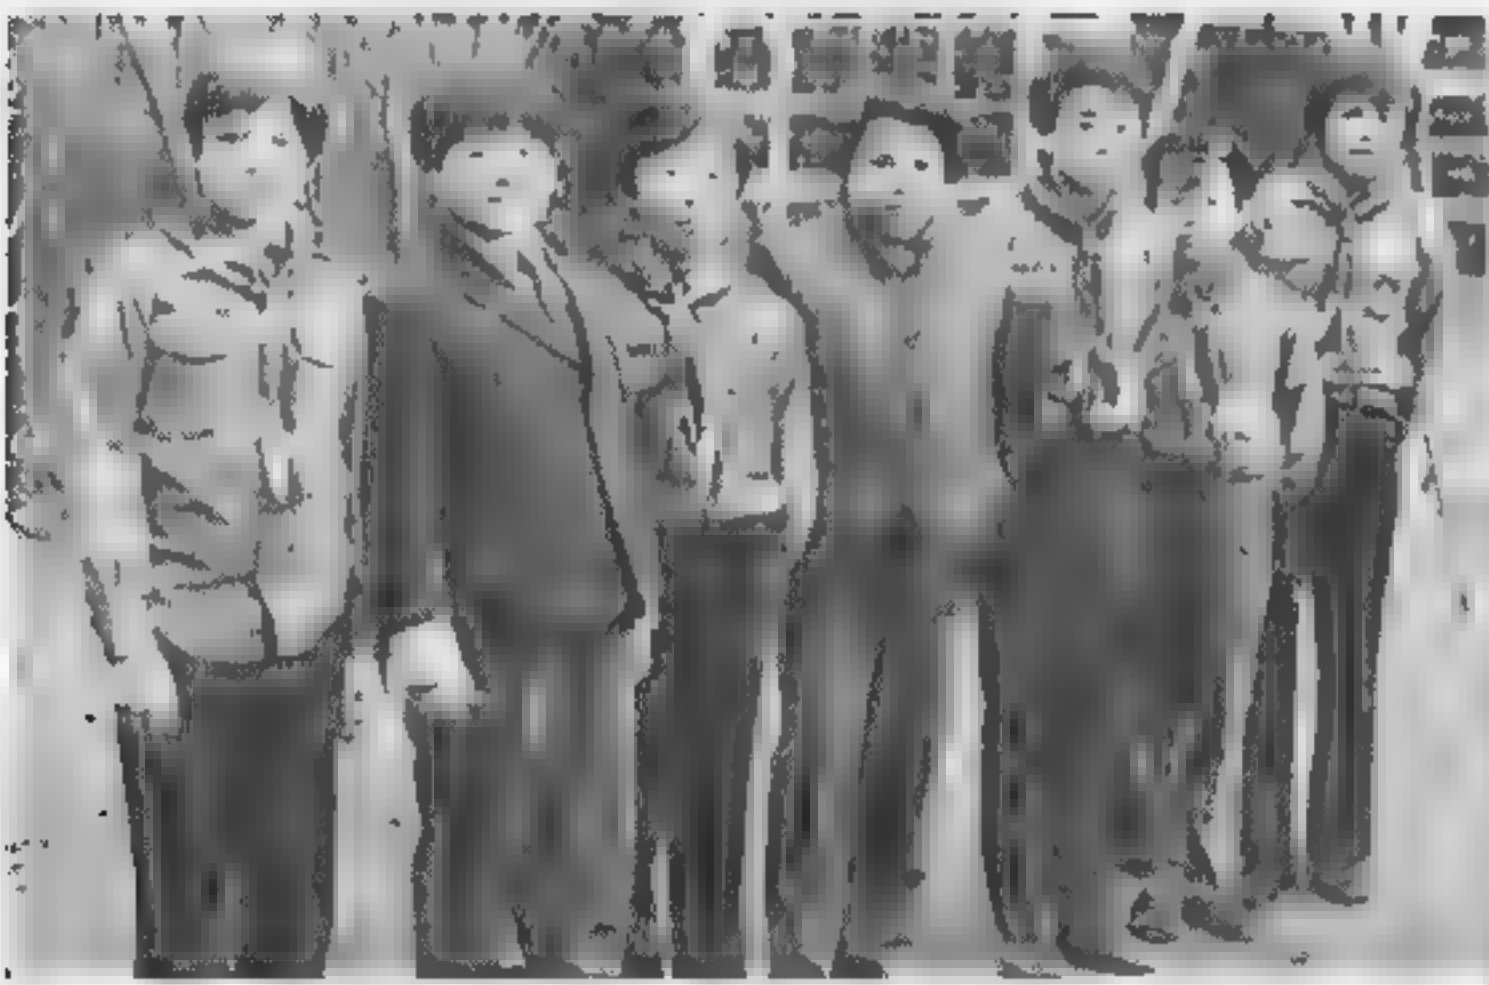

IBS Troop 1 of St. Joseph College celebrated its 60th Anniversary this year. During the course of the year quite a number of events, including camps, were held which kept the scouts busy. Led by Moderator Bro. Scheible and Senior Patrol Leader Moto Tomita, the Boy Scouts truly had a successful year. The four patrol leaders (Thomas Maadie of St. Bernard, Moto Tomita of the Panthers, Wally Hayashi of the Hawks, and Eddie Lih of the Flying Eagles) all worked harmoniously with each other, enabling Troop 1 to celebrate its Anniversary without any mishappenings.

To mention some of the accomplishments of the adventurous scouts this year, they attended the BP celebration of IBS and other Japanese troops. In March, the Scouts participated in the camp, together with BSA 43, at Tanzawa. Also in April the graduating Cub Scouts were promoted to the upper division, greatly increasing the number of Boy Scouts. In addition, the Scouts are to attend the Nippon Jamboree in August at Tama.

AWARENESS

AWARENESS

No individual is totally aware. The most that any one of us can hope for is to continue the process of becoming more aware of ourselves and of people around us. During the course of the year students were made more aware of the school, its policies, the importance of education at SJC, and the immense feeling of satisfaction and achievement of completing another year on the road to a "total education". The week of March 6th to 10th served to make us all aware of the merits and the demerits of the school through the process of accreditation by the WASC Accreditation Committee. Several assemblies and speeches in the course of the school year also served to focus our attention on our important roles in the school.

ATHLETICS

Soccer

This year the soccer team did not quite live up to expectations. Despite a strong nucleus from the previous year, several dropped out at various times and new players had to be brought in. Thus it was difficult to find the right balance for the team, especially in defense.

The team finished third in the Kanto Plains League with a 5 win, 3 loss, 2 tie record. The best games were the two ties with St. Marys, who finished second. Once again the SJC eleven had disappointing games against A.S.I.J. who won the League for four consecutive years.

The team finally settled into shape for the International Invitational Competition and beat Nagoya International 7-0 in the semifinals, with the Saints' goal keeper touching the ball only once during the whole game. Then the team never looked anything but winners in the finals against Canadian Academy. Mita scored two first-half goals, and Pang and Rinoie rounded off the scoring in the second half for a 4-1 win, ample revenge for last year.

The Seniors provided the nucleus of the team and many reserves when necessary but the performances of our Freshmen through Junior members give the team a lot of hope for an even better result next year.

Basketball

The team this year participated in three cup games. The first one, which was held at Canadian Academy in Kobe, was the International Invitational Tournament. The team ended in third place out of four schools. Of course, it is not easy to win the game with the referee from the opposing team and with approximately 500 students cheering for the other team. Then came the Kanto Plains J.V. League. It is always difficult to participate in the varsity's league when we have only one Senior playing in the team.

The third cup game, which was held in Hiroshima, was another International Tournament, but this time eight schools participated. The Saints ended in 6th place but in this tournament, the great effort and the spirited sportsmanship of the team was rewarded at last. The team won the Outstanding Sportsmanship Trophy. And the captain, Ricardo Basco, was chosen as one of the All-Stars

The way they played this year, the SJC basketball team's action next year is something that you just can't miss. And that is the unadulterated truth.

Tennis

The tennis team was already in action before the school year started. The zealous members got together with the enthusiastic Captain Zee during the summer vacation and trained themselves under the hot sun. The primary reason for this early start was to enhance the team's solidarity and also to prepare for the Far East Tournament which was held in October.

It was the first time for the SJC tennis team to participate in the Far East Tournament. Considering the fact that it was a completely new experience for the team, the SJC players performed very well in the matches. St. Joseph was placed fifth out of nine teams. The team will be participating in the tournament again next year.

BIG RED MACHINE

The baseball team was nonexistent at St. Joseph College for sometime. But last year, the birth of the new team significantly refreshed the mood of the students. Now SJC has all the major sport teams of a High School. The team believes that without baseball, sport activities at SJC were always incomplete and of course unrealistic.

The team is the Big Red Machine, a subdivision of the World Champion Cincinnati Reds. The team members have the identical red-white-red uniform, not to mention the hustling top quality class A players. The team is a small club, still they come big when it comes to games. Right, they're always one and they're No. 1.

The addition of the team is measured as a touch of royalty to the once banal sport activities here. Still, special acknowledgement need be given to Mr. Okuhara, their moderator, who made it all possible by his drastic efforts in organizing the team.

Judo

For the past few years the Judo team didn't have a coach. But finally this year, Mr. Akira Yamazaki came to coach the team. Mr. Yamazaki is a graduate of Takushoku University and presently he holds the 3rd dan.

Even though Mr. Yamazaki spoke only Japanese, the team members learned much from him during the past year. They started out with the basics of Judo in early October but by June of this year, all had acquired the necessary skills for actual competition.

Since the team is still new and young, they haven't had any official matches with other teams. Next year, they plan to have as many matches as possible in order that they can learn more about Judo from actual experience. The Judo team is a unique team existing in our school. Best wishes for a successful future.

Track and Field

Along with the Baseball team, the Track and Field team was a new addition to the student body organization. Captain Ohe initiated this club and, with the cooperation of the members, mostly from the Sophomore class, the club was recognized as an official team. Since the club is still new, they haven't had any games with other teams but their main objective this year was to build up the basic fundamentals involved in the track and field events. According to Captain Ohe, this objective was successfully attained. All the members have undergone hard training and they have built up strenuous muscles and basic skills for competing in track and field events.

The team is mostly composed of Sophomores and Juniors, and so Captain Ohe is looking forward to make next school year as a dynamic year of action.

Little Saints

Little Tennis

A new club was organized in the Grade School by Mr. Mikami this year. Grade School students from Grades 5 through 7 got together and formed a tennis club under Mr. Mikami's instruction. For most of the students, it was their first time to hold the rackets but after several lessons, the enthusiastic young players were able to play rallies. Yet the main purpose, according to Mr. Mikami, was to give the students an opportunity to appreciate sports through tennis.

Intramural

The Sports Committee organized an enjoyable series of intramural games for the high school students this year. The softball games held in October were the first of the series. With a blank of several months, the basketball intramural games took place. Then they were followed by soccer intramural games and finally in May, softball games were held to decide the Champion Class of the Year. This honor went to the Seniors, Class of '78. Despite many difficulties in scheduling the games, the series of intramural games gave high school students not involved in the school sports teams an opportunity to display their athletic abilities and above all to enjoy sports.

Student Life

Lunch time is a very special time of day at S.J.C., especially for the Seniors. Why for the Seniors? Well, it goes like this. This fourth period is when this all happens. As soon as the major portion of this class is over, the action starts. It has to start with one student, who gazes at his watch and notes that there are only three minutes left before the bell signals the beginning of lunch time. He starts inching closer to the back exit of the classroom, and, as soon as the others get the hint, they, too, start moving closer to the door. It is now two minutes to what is probably the most favorite time of day. Occasionally several students slip through the open door although the class is still in session. As soon as the bell sounds, everyone, save a few who don't care, dashes across the hallway, bumping into others, occasionally a teacher, making way for himself. "Me, myself, and I" is the cry on their rampage trail. Down the steps they hasten, not caring if they have dropped a pen, a book, or, even money. Stomping, they enter the cafeteria and run to the window to form a confused food line. Then the shouts start, usually coming from the very last person in the line, although he realizes there are other individuals in front of him. His nagging question is whether he will get his lunch or not. This, my friends, is the daily routine of the hungry.

Pep Up

Every Friday afternoon, right after lunch time, the High School students were given the opportunity to let free their frustrations by screaming themselves out. What? That's right! It was at this time every week that the students were divided into their respective classes, and the contest began. The students were evaluated by a panel of teachers who judged the students on effort, pitch, tone, harmony, tune. . . . After each pep rally, a tabulation is made, and the Principal announced the rank of the contesting classes. Throughout the year, these weekly scores were tabulated, and, at the end of the school year, a prize was awarded to the class with the highest total on Awards Day. The pep rally—a great improvement on the road to full student participation!

8th GRADE GRADUATES

CLASS OF 1982

When we 8th graders think of highlights in our year we think mostly of our classmates. We have our private jokes, our favorite characters, our liked and disliked teachers. We're a class that likes to laugh and have fun, probably too much fun!

We began the year as "immature" students. We showed some maturity by getting only two demerits in a quarter, a record for this year. We have had as many as one-third of our class on the honor roll at one time.

We really like to think of our year like this: Mr. Failey losing his hair and getting a shining head because our other teachers always complain to him about us; Kim's morning train station adventures; Steffes and magazines; Takuya and Bruce and how they didn't fight on the excursion; Matsuo's girlfriend; Walter's movies; Nakano's golf balls; Yung Ming's skateboards; Andy's imitation of Bro. Wasy; Jun getting seasick after Mr. Failey on our excursion; Joe's dancing; Lai's desk; Gregory's art and class management; Maadie always being on the honor roll; Nishida's haircuts; Park's key chains and living in Kawasaki; Beaver and the Pink Ladies; Ko's speeches (showers); Tominaga's use of English; Moto staying awake for three days and two nights on the excursion; the way Whalen walks in circles around his desk when he gets his report card; Paul changing his name; and many more. . .

We've had a good year.

COMMUNICATION

COMMUNICATION

The spoken word which is ever so revealing has been used to procure friends, share ideas, and "speak" minds in a concerted effort to keep the spirit of SJC strong for future generations. Naturally, many of us became aware of the fact that the process of communication involves more than one person. True communication is when two or more people participate together in a dialogue. The exchange of information between people and the willingness to receive information from others are the two principles of effective communication. Communication—the glorifying, gratifying ability of us all has been utilized in its entirety to provide all with a very memorable year. In the course of the year, parents, teachers, and students strengthened the forces of communication in such events as the Bonfire, the Annual Speech Contest, and the regular masses.

CLASS OF 1981

The spirited Class of 1981 prided itself in any number of accomplishments. Among the most important would have to be the class excursion. This was a trip to Shuzenji, from which sorties were made to Sea Paradise on the coast, and to Cycle Sports Center for a day of cycling and games. Another accomplishment was the role of five class members in the decisive match in which SJC defeated Canadian Academy of Kobe 4 to 1 in the finals of the Invitational Soccer Tournament. The class exhibited its typical spirit by being placed first in the high school for the Mothers' Club Raffle Drive. The bake sale sponsored by the class was lauded as one of the best. In spite of our youth, the class made a fine showing against older and heavier opponents in the soccer intramurals. Christmas furnished a fitting time to celebrate together by having a class party at Okonomi Yaki Restaurant. The science field trip gave the class food for thought at Aburatsubo. The members of the class, thus, are proud of their accomplishments and look forward to even greater accomplishment at SJC in the years to come.

CLASS OF 1980

It has been a busy year for the Class of 1980. During the first quarter, the class went on a science field trip to an aquarium in Aburatsubo with the Freshmen. This aquarium featured many types of fish, octopi, and other marine animals.

In the second quarter, the class participated in two memorable activities. First, a get-together with Y.I.S. and St. Maur. This was a two-day volleyball event, in which SJC won the overall championship. In December, the class sponsored a Christmas party and invited the St. Maur's Sophomores. This event was held at the Satellite Hotel.

A joint field trip with the St. Maur's Sophomores took place during the third quarter. The trip took the class to Yomiuri-Land for some ice-skating. Also, during this quarter the annual class excursion took the class to Chiba. It rained most of the three days, so there wasn't much to do. Still, most felt that this event was a success.

And during the last quarter... On April 14 we held a bake sale and made a good profit for the class. We concluded the year with our end-of-the-year party. Everything we've done, actually, has turned out successfully for our class!

Junior Class

On September 2, 1977, twenty-six happy and spirited Juniors were anxious to begin a very challenging and demanding school year.

Raising funds for many exciting projects, providing prompt service for ushering, having a memorable excursion, and an effort to build self-esteem were among the many goals of the class. A good proportion of the class was intent on achieving these goals while others promised to try hard. A few days later, the class started out energetically and their steam was exhausting quickly, as all jobs demanded painstaking, concerted effort on the part of everyone. The concept of continuous improvement and success, however, gave inertia to sometimes dwindling hopes and as the year passed, the efforts of the class picked up momentum. Every class member cooperated and toiled hard to lift the reputation of the class. In fact, the whole-hearted participation by each individual is the element which can be admired.

The class, infact, has come a long way, but it is just the beginning of a progressive life. In a year, they will wear the robes of graduation and a recollection of 1977-78 will give them a feeling of immense satisfaction.

Kenneth C. C. Cheng

Having been in the school for twelve years, Kenneth is one of the most well-rounded students SJC has ever had. Taking a great interest in school activities, he served as the Forward Editor, Vice-Prefect of the Sodality Club, and was a member of several clubs. His flashy smile beams quiet merri-ment into every corner of the school. Always ac-cepting responsibility, Kenneth's trait is coopera-tion.

Kenny Hu

Kenny is quite a mathematician and when calculus hour comes around, he employs his tables with great dexterity. Aside from being a studious young man, he is a great sport enthusiast and is always ready to participate in intramural events. Having served as the Class Treasurer during his Freshman and Senior years, Kenny is reliable, loyal, and reserved.

Terry Cornell Kennedy

First prize for speaking undoubtedly goes to Terry, a good-humored young man. Being quite a star on the soccer team, he enjoys playing the guitar and listening to music. Full of exuberance, Terry is a fine leader, heading the Social Committee this year. Always ready to take on responsibility, he should be able to "talk" his way into a successful life.

Kenneth Lee

Probably the greatest comedian and fun-lover of the class, Kenneth's ability to give and take a joke often sets the entire class raging in laughter. Being an active member of several clubs, Kenneth also takes time out to play the guitar. He hopes to become a great musician in due time. Easy-going, jovial, and highly optimistic all describe Kenneth.

Lee Myon Woo

Myon is a deep thinker who expresses whatever he says in a very poetic manner. Neither quiet nor boisterous, he is one of the latest additions to the class. Having great artistic talent, he enjoys sketching in his leisure time. Being reserved most of the time, he dislikes misunderstanding. Myon has strived, during his relatively short stay with the class, to bring harmony to the class.

Lu Yung Han

Lu has won the distinction of being the speediest writer in his class. Although he does not have any knowledge of shorthand, he jots down notes with the greatest of speed. Being talented in Accounting, Lu has served as the Treasurer of the Forward, a truly arduous task. Skiing is one of this ambitious man's hobbies. It has been said that if a person were to look at one of his skiing pictures, one will undoubtedly infer that he is a professional skier. Lu's interests are varied and it seems likely that he will "go places" in his life.

Deepak K. Mahtani

On campus, Deepak is mostly a side-liner, and though not prejudiced against sports, it may be said that he has no preference for sports. On the other hand, he is quite ambitious in his class work. Never being sad, he may have his moods, but these are so rare that he has hardly ever been caught not smiling. Serving as the Literary Editor of the Forward and Secretary/Treasurer of the Sodality, Deepak also participates actively in school activities, and has a bright future ahead.

Michael Milano

Mike is one of the "old-timers" at Saint Joseph's, having been here for twelve years. The unending smile on his face displays his radiant personality. Having a craze for airplanes and jets, he is always ready to join any conversation on the subject of aviation. Mike has come to be known as a very straightforward person who is very responsible.

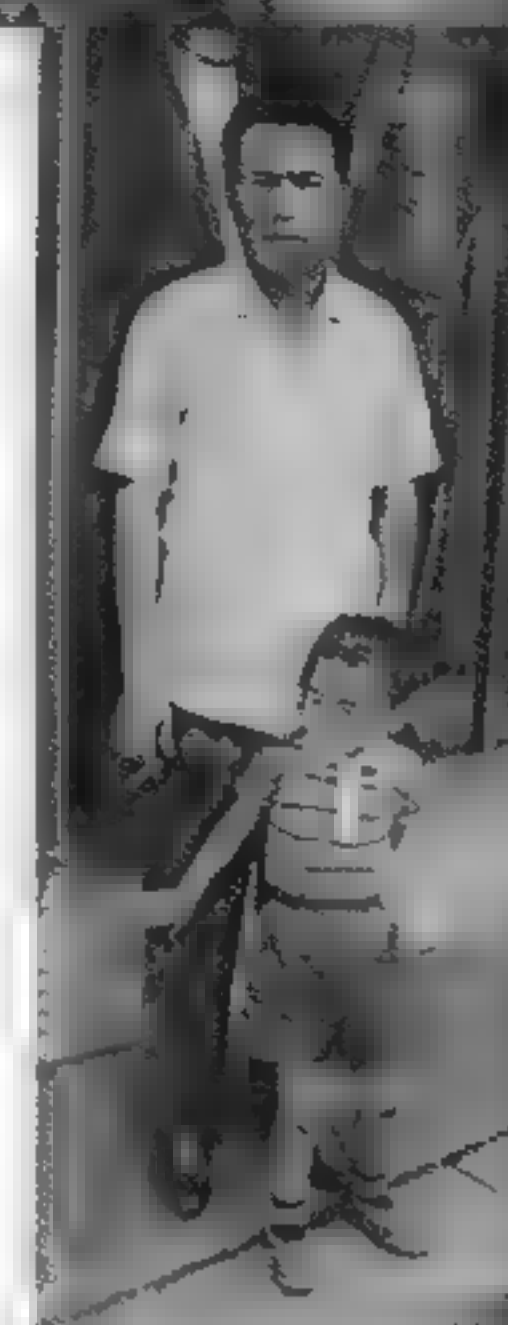

Leo Miyazaki

Leo, probably the most unique person in his class, is ready to argue points which he does not understand. Being a great profounder of theories, any conversation with him seems never to terminate. His hobby is performing musically, and he hopes to become a great star in the music world. Being a keen baseball enthusiast, he prefers to cheer from the sidelines rather than descend into the arena. Leo—a great guy!!

Yasuyuki Okada

During the three years he spent with us, Yasuyuki has given his fellow classmates a very enjoyable time. With his humor, he has always entertained us both in and out of school. We all now give him our thanks and hope that he'll have a happy college life.

Henry Sugito Osias (Kenji)

Henry is a typical good friend for anyone. With his open-mindedness, he gives full entertainment to his fellow classmates. Sociable and intelligent, Henry is well liked by his school friends and also by his teachers. Another remarkable aspect is that he's quite an athlete. He manages to play baseball very well, especially pitching and playing outfield. During the school year, he was often seen coaching Wayne Zee how to excel in his position in the outfield.

Ernest Verano

As his name suggests, Ernest is an earnest and an honest man. He works hard both for himself and for others. Ernest's sincerity towards others is always present in his daily school life. Also his earnest participation in the chess club for the past four years is admirable. We hope that his earnest qualities give him more success later in his life.

Wayne Wai Zee (I Jo)

Wayne, in a few words, is a humorous fellow who is well coordinated both mentally and physically. He is well liked by his friends for his sincerity both in and out of school. During school hours he proves his intelligence by listening intently to the teachers' lectures. After school we often see Wayne involved in school activities. Everyone thinks of Wayne as an SJC student.

CLASS OF 1978

All our undertakings in the course of the year have served to unite the class. Throughout the year, the Seniors not only participated, but also took the lead in countless events. Our efforts started early. Infact, all twenty-six of us set our minds on how to make our last year in school as unique and as eventful as possible.

Our first event was the Senior Production held in December, which was very successful. The Annual Speech Contest again saw the active participation of several Seniors. The help and momentum given by the Seniors during the Bingo and Food-Fair as well as the Bonfire, earlier in the year, was of great help to the success of these events. Later on in the year, the Seniors took charge of the Alumni Raffle Drive which is a very worthy effort. The Junior-Senior joint Prom held on May 19 proved to be a forerunner of future successful proms and a good end for the year.

The Senior Class during the past year looked beneath the surface of things. The twenty-six of us have obtained an awakened interest in the well-being of the school. We have deepened our love for it, so that in the days to come, a keen sense of pride and admiration will recur to us.

Dear Graduates of 1978,

Your class was called on for an uncommon duty: that of leading the students of St. Joseph College through the school's quinquennial self-study as part of the accreditation procedure of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges. Many of you had to work long hours examining the data of questionnaires and assembling a report included in the self-study volumes.

St. Joseph College especially appreciates the welcome you extended to the members of the visiting committee of the Western Association. The visitors were favorably impressed in formal and informal meetings with you. The overall effect of your contribution was very positive so that the visiting committee saw many reasons for a hopeful future for St. Joseph College.

You can look back on many achievements such as soccer trophies, basketball trophies, excellent dramatic productions, outstanding achievements in academic work, and an abundance of class and school spirit.

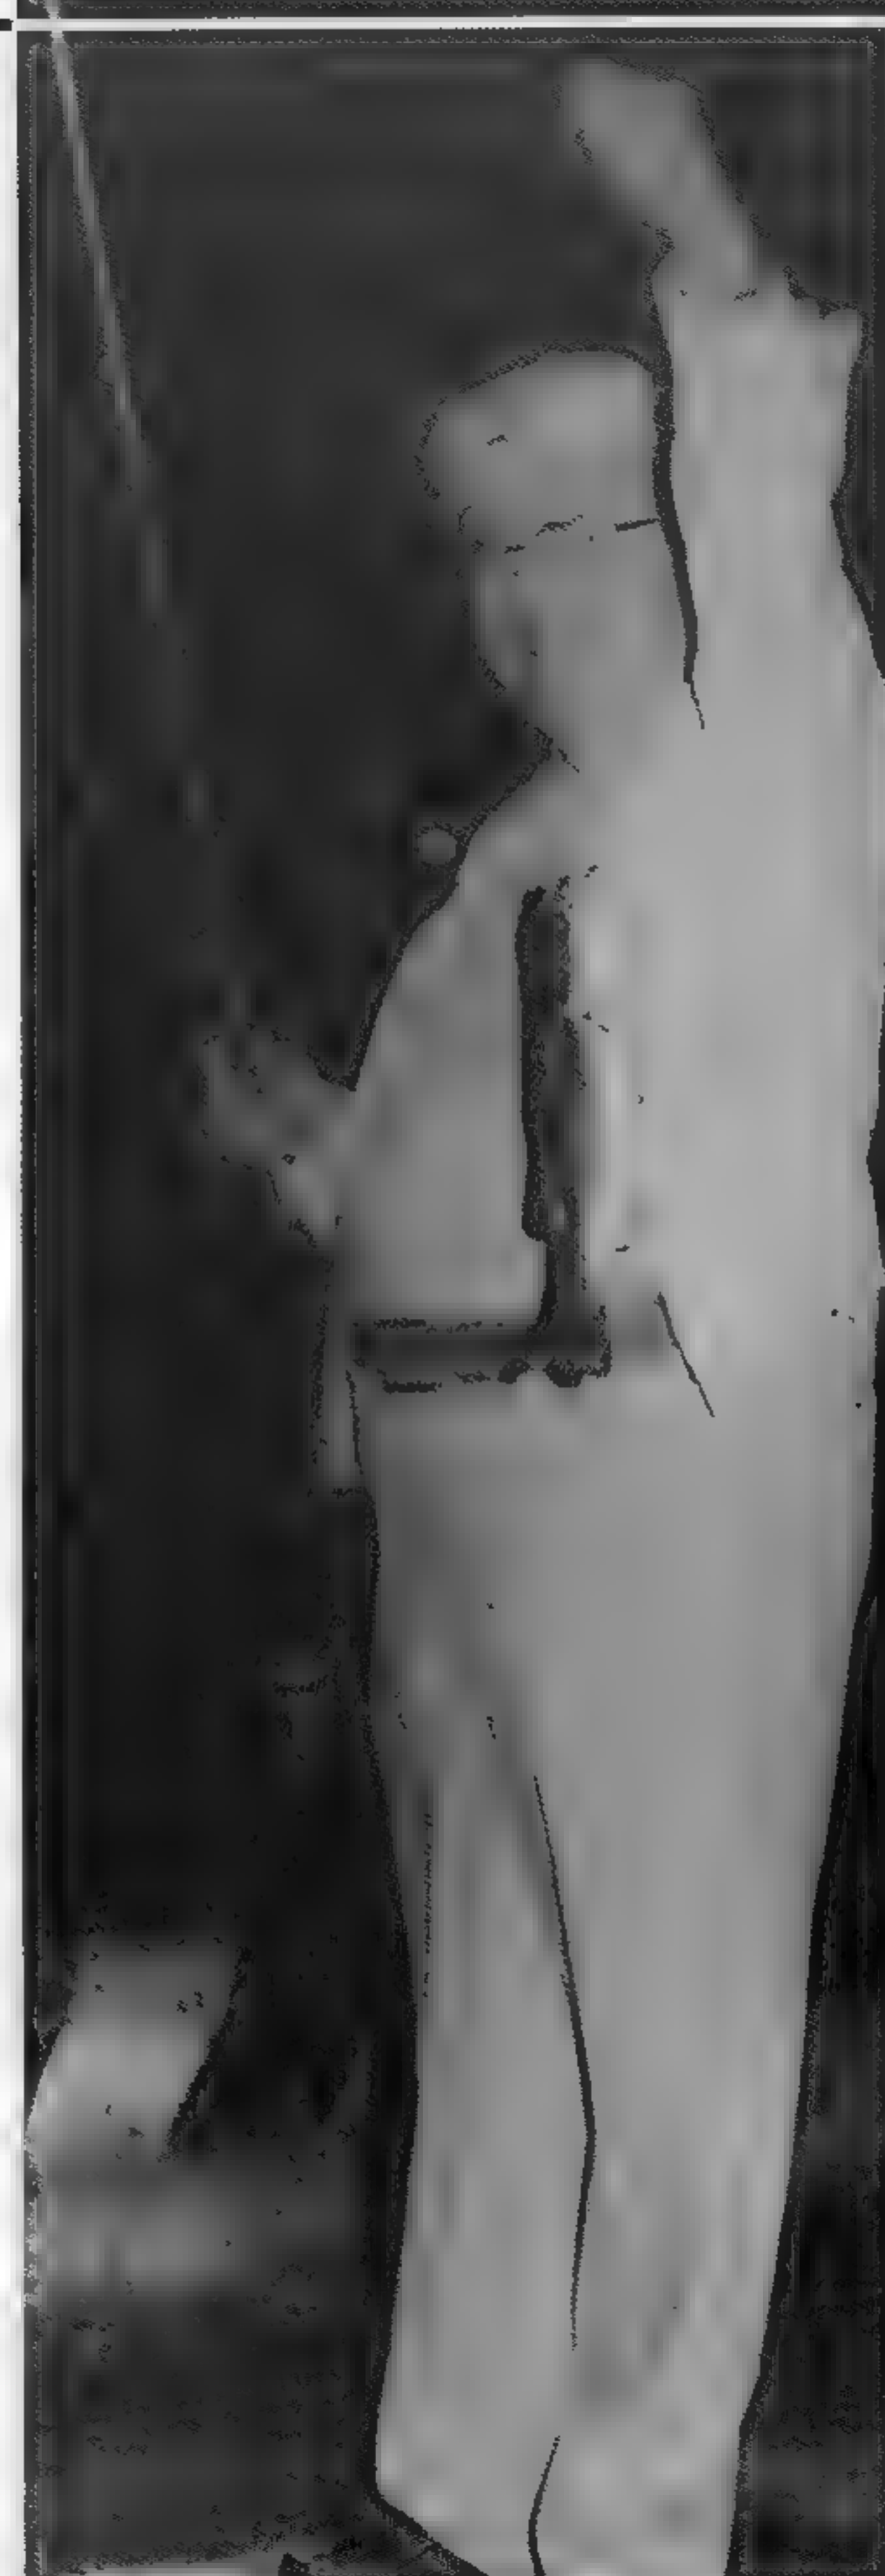

Your years at St. Joseph College saw various changes in the administration of the school. Every one of those changes produced challenges and uncertainties not easily absorbed. Your basic spirit and love of the school helped you surmount the difficulties and become stronger as a consequence.

It is my hope that the ideals you learned at St. Joseph College will grow and flourish in the years ahead. You can draw strength from moral lessons and courage from the example of your teachers. Most of all you can help spread the ideals and message of internationalism learned from life at St. Joseph College. Our prayers will follow you wherever you go all through life and beyond the grave.

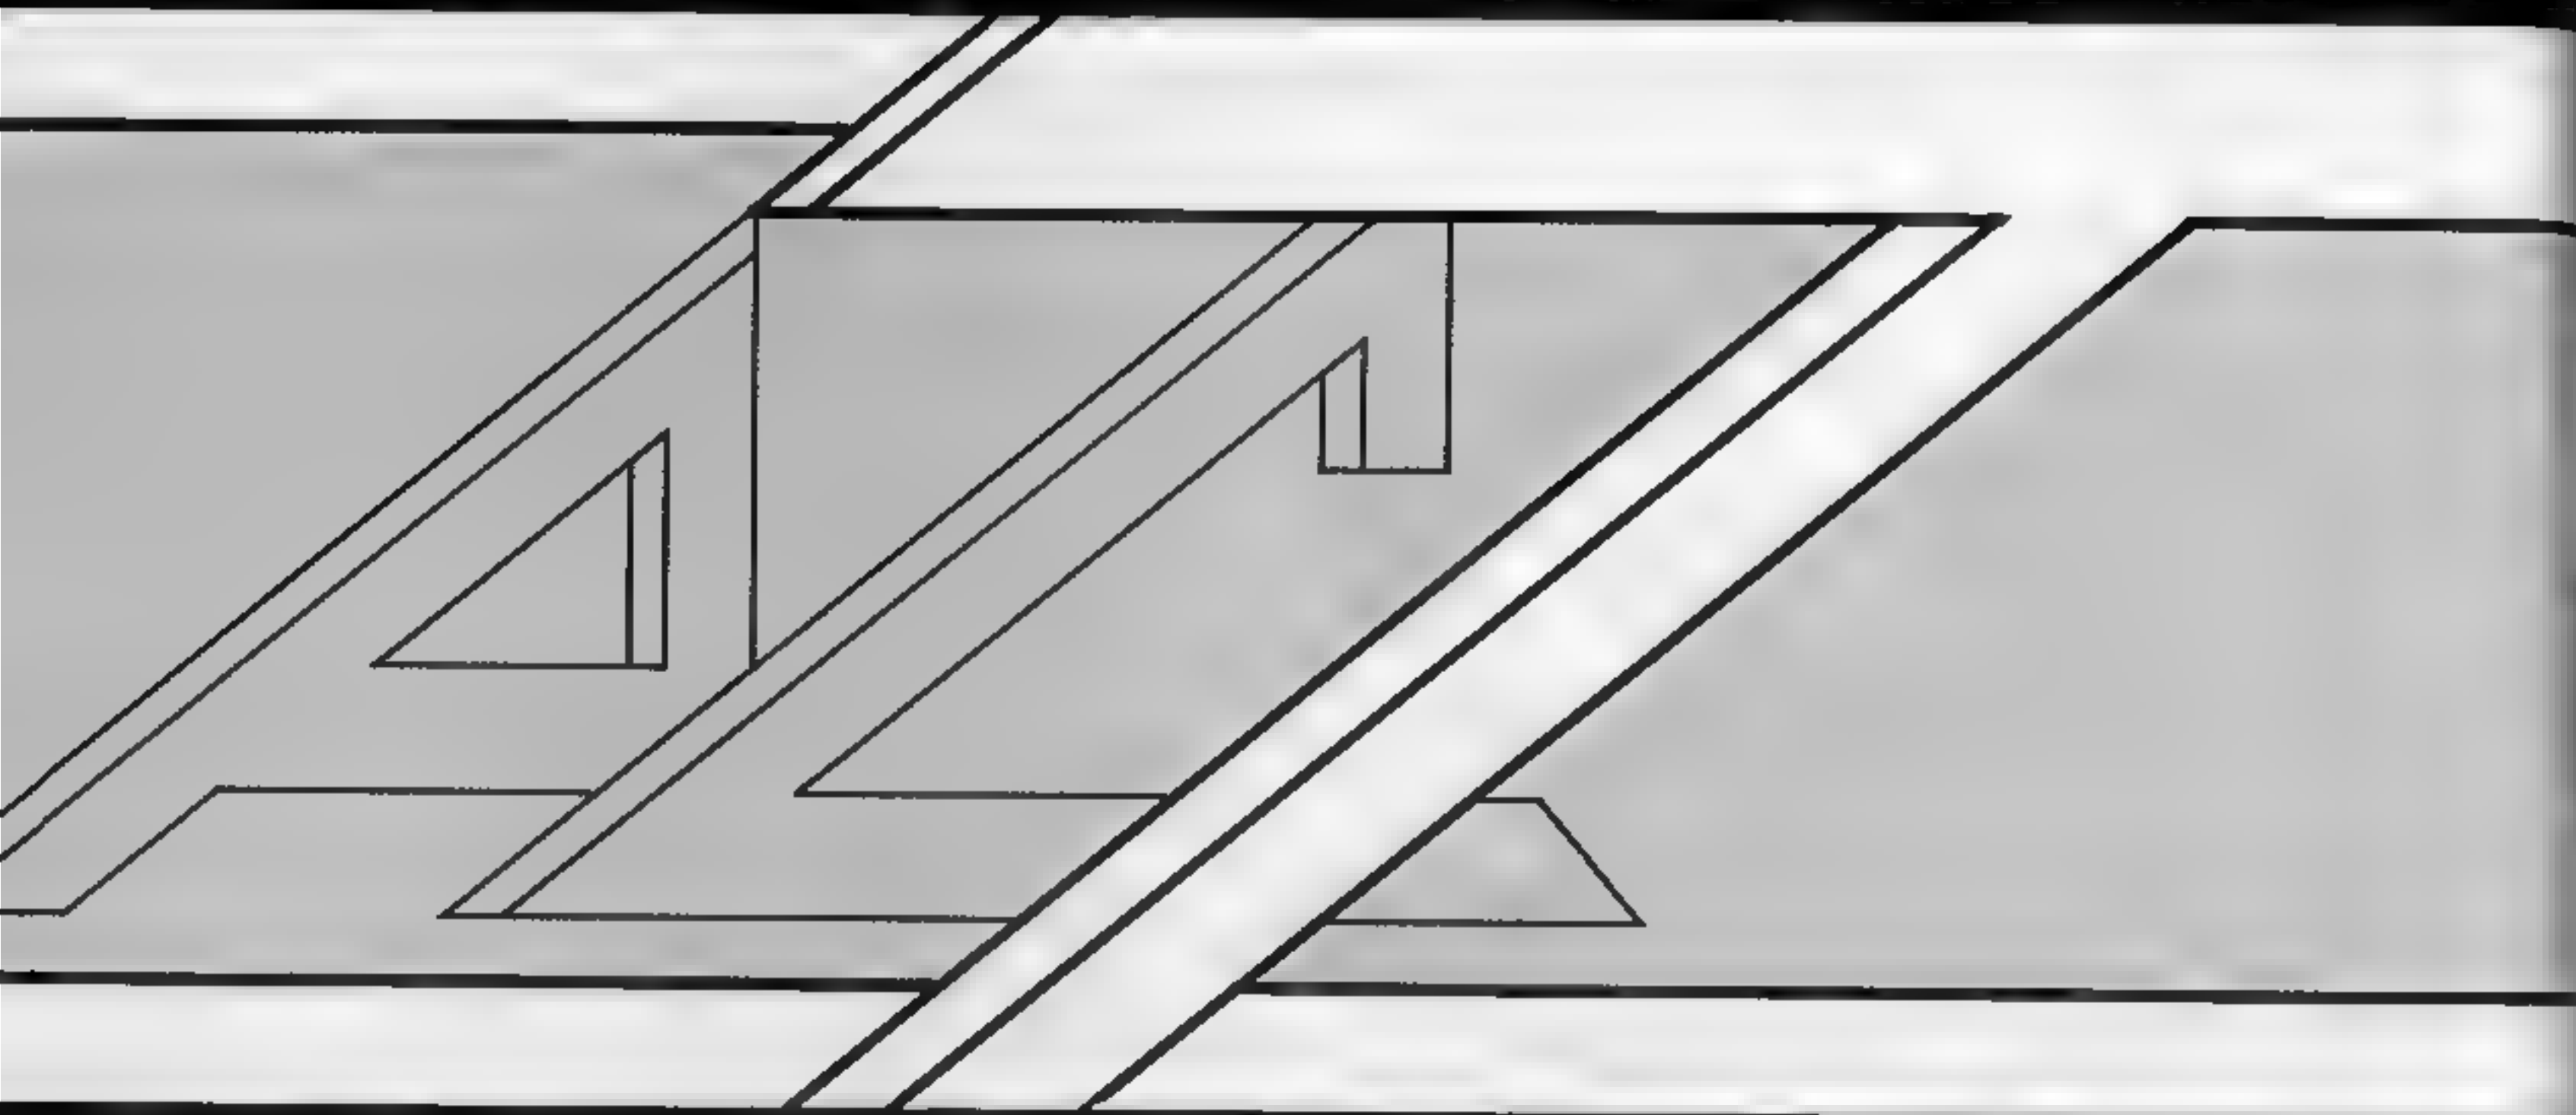

Sincerely yours,

Brother Donald McKee, S.M.

TOGETHERNESS

TOGETHERNESS

Working together, thinking together, and living together, the spirit of togetherness has radiated far and wide. Togetherness at SJC is a state in which people are involved with each other, sharing, caring, playing, and talking seriously about one or another issue in their relationship. Students, teachers, and parents focused their individual energies on each other in the course of the year. The feeling of togetherness, actually in its second year of running, was witnessed during the WASC Accreditation Week in which all our efforts were amalgamated to create a truly unique relationship. Thus, the spirit of togetherness has grown larger than the previous year, and promises to grow even larger in the future.

FACULTY AND ACADEMICS

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

This year a great deal of progress was made in the development of closer relations between the English Department and the other units on campus. Great emphasis was placed on speech in subjects outside the regular English program. Instructors of such subjects as Economics, History, and Salesmanship, among others, stressed the importance of speech in their courses. Students were encouraged to participate in the annual Speech Contest in both the Grade School and the High School Departments.

In the High School, the English program included two courses. The first, English, the attention of which was centered on the writing of essays, term papers, etc. and on the learning of vocabulary, was offered five times a week. The other course, Literature, was more so centered on the reading and comprehension of novels, poetry, plays, etc., was offered three times a week. It is felt that the combination of these courses provide a well-rounded course of study and enhance the speaking, reading, and writing abilities of the students.

LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT

The language program offered at Saint Joseph College has proved to be very effective over the past years. This year, there have been many improvements in the development of this department. Students are given greater opportunities to come in contact with native speakers of France and Spain. Increased interest in the languages on the part of the students was made possible by frequent visitations of individuals and groups who serve to proffer the distinct cultures to the students.

The program requires entering freshmen to take either Spanish or French for a minimum of two years. In the Junior and Senior years, however, students have the option of either continuing their language courses for the remaining two years, or take Economics I & II.

The goal of this department is to provide the students with fluency in speaking, writing, and reading in the languages. Students, even with only two years of study, find languages a great asset in their college education and later on in their professional lives.

SOCIAL SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

The Social Science Department at S.J.C. has become more and more active this year. It is in this department that the most field trips are scheduled to sites of historical value throughout the archipelago of Japan. The increased availability of films, slides, and other audio-visual equipment has been a resourceful addition to the Social Science program.

Although courses relating to this program are provided in the Grade School Department, it is actually in the High School that the students are offered a complete program of world cultures. During the four years in the high school, students are offered Comparative Government in the Freshman year followed by European History in the Sophomore year. During the Junior and Senior years, the courses become more intensive. The students are offered American History and Far Eastern Studies, respectively. In the present world of inter-cultural exchanges, it is felt that this program is of immense value in the education of the future citizens of the world.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Saint Joseph College provides a business program geared to serve the students who are business-inclined. The Business Department consists of a comprehensive program in which the students are familiarized with the fundamentals of business-related courses. In the Junior year, students are offered Accounting, Speech, and Economics I. Then, in the Senior year, Salesmanship/Advertising, Economics II, and Business English are offered. It is believed that this well-rounded course offering will greatly benefit the students, who, later, will be majoring in business in college or seeking jobs.

The goals of the Business Department are to help the students understand and experience everyday business practices and procedures in the actual business world. Meetings with prominent industrialists, businessmen, and bankers, and frequent visitations to banks, stock exchanges, and other commercial institutions provide the students with first-hand knowledge and experience. It is the ulterior aim of the Business Department to make well-balanced, highly-efficient businessmen of SJC students who follow the Business program.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

Students at Saint Joseph College are offered a very comprehensive science program. The Science Department has, over the past years, strived to foster the needs of all. It has succeeded in taking care of the special needs of the students. This is being accomplished by combining the Freshmen and the Sophomores. The more advanced students are placed in a more intensive program. Those with lesser abilities are placed in a program to serve their needs.

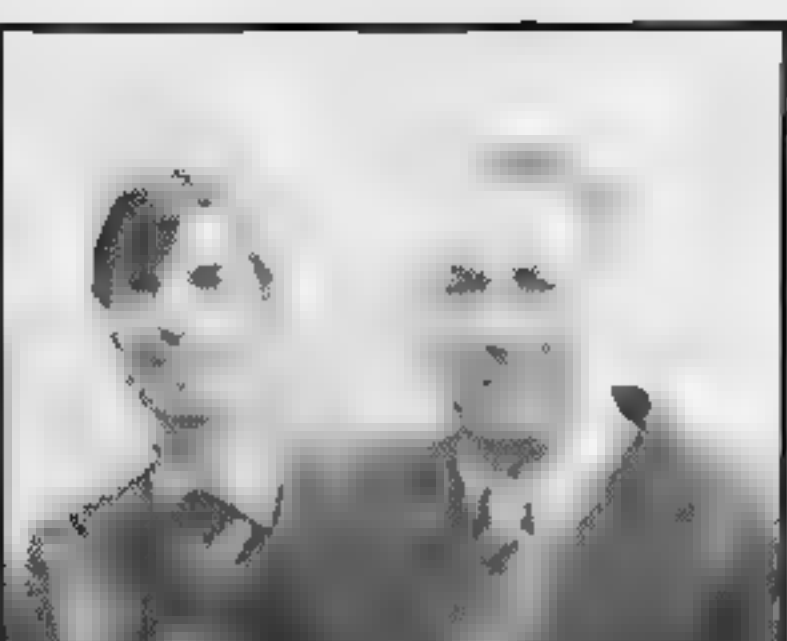

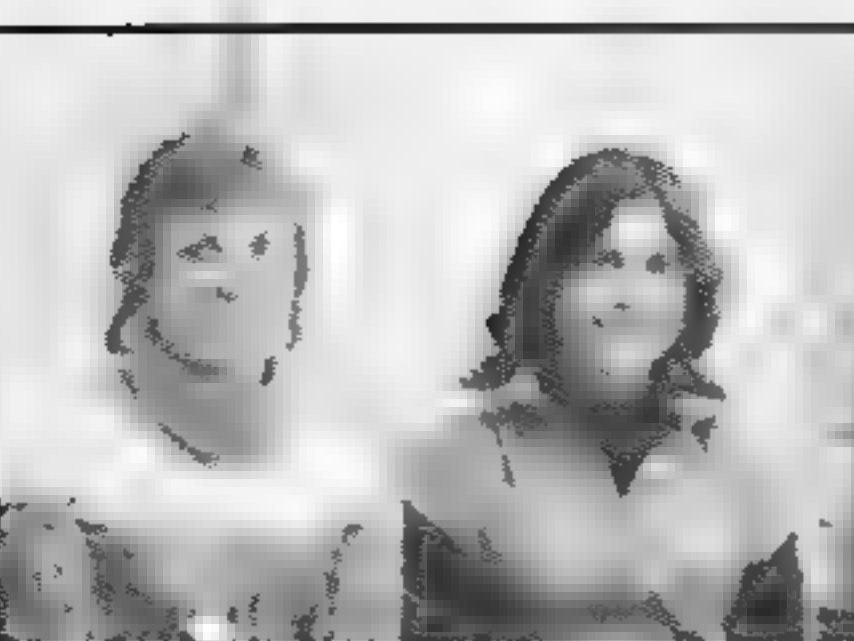

After being taught General Science and Biology during these two years, students are able to study Chemistry in their junior year and Physics in their senior year. Incorporated in these courses are what most students consider the best part of the subjects—laboratory work. Students are permitted to dissect laboratory pets in their Biology class. The lab periods in chemistry and physics serve to broaden the students' horizons. The Science Department has succeeded in its efforts.

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

Saint Joseph College is proud to have a strong and effective mathematics program instructed by distinguished and competent teachers. In the present world of rapid technological progress, the role of mathematics has become a very important field of study. The goal of this department is to provide the students with an excellence in rational thinking and reasoning. Students at SJC have the opportunity to take Algebra I in the Eighth Grade, while ordinarily, the course is offered during the Freshman year. It is due to this advance offering that, allows Seniors to study Calculus. The very fact that students here are one level higher than most High School graduates has been proven by the high results on the SAT test attained by SJC students. Furthermore, the excellent math program has provided students with great success in the annual math contests. Students who follow the entire five-year math program offered in S.J.C. all agree that they are greatly indebted to the excellent Math Department present in Saint Joseph College.

Alumni Association

The Alumni Association and the Mothers Club are two organizations which have contributed greatly to the school this year. The Alumni Association raised scholarship funds to help those students with financial need attending St. Joseph College. The funds were raised through the raffle drive and the Annual Dinner-Dance Party held in May.

The main event of the Mothers Club was the Christmas Dinner-Dance held in December. From the profit of this event, as well as from the raffle drive, the club was able to donate about ¥2,000,000 to the school. This money was used primarily for several renovations of the school buildings.

Another group of parents formed the Bingo and Food-Fair Committee.

The Bingo and Food-Fair was held on April 1st and 2nd. Volunteers from the parents as well as some of the older students of SJC formed the Bingo and Food-Fair Committee which organized one of the highlights of the year. It goes without saying that without the whole-hearted support from the Alumni Association, the Mothers Club, and the Bingo and Food-Fair Committee, the school year wouldn't have turned out to be such a fruitful year.

Men of Outstanding Service

MR. JOHN MITTWER

Mr. John Mittwer, a former SJC graduate, on November 7, 1977, was bestowed the honor of Fifth Class of the Sacred Treasure by the Emperor of Japan. He was presented this honor for his complete devotion in promoting international friendship and for restoring the Boy Scout Organization of Japan after World War II. Mr. Mittwer has since then remained affiliated with the organization.

What are some of his accomplishments? His greatest, and most recent, was the recognition as a result of the high honor given him. The very fact that there are 18,000 members under the Kanagawa Boy Scout Association today supplies enough evidence of the great contributions to this organization. This number is growing year by year which proves that through Mr. Mittwer's efforts there are still great numbers of enthusiasts who were willing to keep the organization running and growing. The event received much media coverage throughout Japan, and, in turn, it was a source of pride for our school. Mr. John Mittwer has proved to be a good symbol and ideal example for the future generations of SJC students. Mr. Mittwer is surely a good example of accomplishment!

BRO. CHARLES IMHOFF

Brother Charles Imhoff has been affiliated with Saint Joseph College longer than any other person. Serving in various positions during his years at SJC, he has gained much respect not only in the school, but also in the neighboring community around the school. Ever since his arrival in Japan, Bro. Charles has taught throughout the entire Japan island chain in various Marianist schools, spending most of his time, however, at S.J.C. Through the years, he has served as a teacher, counselor, and playground supervisor. Presently, he is retired, but his contributions over the years to the school and the entire student body live on through his very presence in the school.

BRO. GERMAIN VONDERSCHER

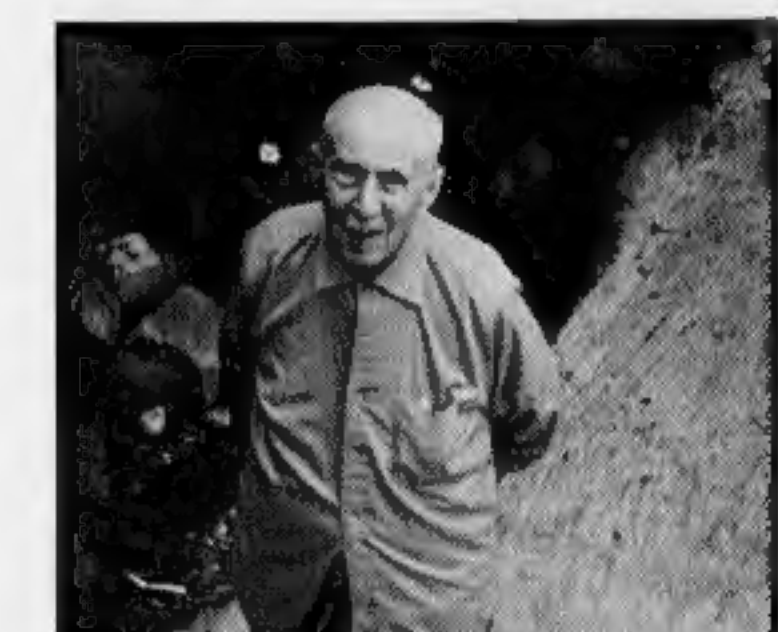

Bro. Germain, a long-time French Marianist at Saint Joseph College has gained respect as being very youthful in body, cheerful in spirit, and alert in mind. Having served in countless positions throughout the years, people, both young and old, enjoy his company very much. During the past few years, Bro. Germain has been of immense help in the Information Booth right in the front of the school building. Through his sincere efforts he has assisted in improving the image of the school throughout the local community. Each of us might remember Bro. Germain for varied reasons, but we all remember his continued and unending contributions through the years to the school and the entire student body.

BRO. LEO KRAFT

Brother Leo Kraft, a long-time veteran teacher at Saint Joseph College has served as the Grade School Religion teacher for the past many years. In addition, he founded the Cub Scout section of the International Boy Scout (I.B.S.) Troop I. Altogether, he has spent fifteen years associated with the Boy and Cub Scout activities at SJC.

Bro. Leo is particularly fond of youngsters, as is evident by the fact that he has instructed the Grade School students and worked in conjunction with the younger scouts. Besides this, he has also served as Boarding Prefect of the youngsters for the past twelve years. Bro. Leo keeps on going strong and keeps his activeness and youthful vitality till this day by his association with the younger generation.

Our Co-Editor was more a dreamer than a doer. Nevertheless, he possessed the ability to grasp situations quickly and execute his ideas with great speed. Being receptive to new situations and new ideas, Peter preferred to travel a smooth path in his endeavours rather than engage in conflicts. His analytical abilities to view, recognize, and measure the subtlety of things aided the Editor immensely.

With his artistic layout designs and his ability to adjust to changing situations, Liang was a great asset to the Layout Editor. Although his ideas conflicted with the Editor sometimes, all turned out for the better. Possessing the qualities of a hard worker, dexterity of hands, and great perseverance, many of his layouts proved to be too artistic to be conceived by any ordinary person.

The Editor confesses that he never thought Yasuyuki had artistic abilities. After the first few layout designs were completed by this imaginative mind, however, our Editor apologized for his jumping to conclusions. The fact is that the Ad-Layout Co-Editor worked with great enthusiasm and fidelity in all of his efforts.

Robert, the Layout Editor, who despite his already tight schedule, sacrificed his spirit, mind, and soul in planning out painstakingly the layout designs. His humor in times of stress and his anger in times of quiet provided great stimulus to the members of the staff.

Kenneth had a scientific, discriminating, urgent, and keen mind. Throughout the year, he was able to meditate and manifest his depth of mind. Being especially alert at detail, he was, luckily, gifted with unusual powers of concentration even when under extreme pressure. All in all, his ability to adapt himself maturely when there was no way out was highly perplexing in the eyes of the staff members.

Compared with previous years, this year's staff consisted of only two persons working on ad-layout. The Ad-Layout Editor thus had to be two in one. He was highly efficient, calm, and hard-working. The difficulties of keeping the coherence and transition from page to page were successfully overcome as a result of his efforts. George, together with his assistant, came up with hitherto undreamt of layout designs for our generous contributors.

The Business Manager, in the midst of ever-increasing costs, went all out to obtain enough money for the production of the final product. He helped others in obtaining the much-needed advertisements and put fire behind a campaign to obtain further donations for a good cause. Proving to be active, reasonable, thrifty, and well-balanced, the staff agrees that if it weren't for Chris, the end product would have never come of the press.

The treasurer was constantly being accused of sitting around and "slacking off", however, he served as a highly efficient staff member. Getting constant requests for additional money from all sides, our money-pinching treasurer's undivided attention and perseverance wore out at the end.

Kenny was probably the most serious staff member. Staying away from arguments, hassles, and fights, he spent most of his time in the darkroom developing prints. Even when he was not in his favorite darkroom, he was constantly seen carrying his beloved equipment around the school. He managed, somehow or another, to gather a wide assortment of photographs for the Forward.

Wayne was the right-hand man of the Photo Director, and was oftentimes at odds with his fellow-workers. His abilities, however, overshadowed these relatively miniscule events. He was highly efficient in all of his work, and some of the best photographs were to his credit. All in all, he proved to be just another on the hard-working staff.

Henry was the most controversial person serving on the staff. Some claimed that he did little, if any, work, others said he did his best. He was constantly tossed around especially for losing three rolls of film, which included pictures of some tournament championship games. Despite all this, he came up with some great pictures and was willing to extend a helping hand to all.

Glen was, originally, given the position of Chief Typist, however, due to some intricacies, he also helped in writing some of the articles. His intuition and semi-developed imagination enabled him to arrive at witty ideas. Despite his earnest efforts, his originality was accomplished at the expense of naturalness.

Deepak had his desire and ambition to distinguish himself from others. Though he was largely self-reliant he required the approval of others. Serving as the Literary Editor, his highly creative mind was often overfilled with new conceptions. When ideas came surging into his mind, he executed them with no delay.

Terry, the latest addition to the staff, entered it at a very opportune time, when the Forward needed a person with great literary abilities. The possessor of originality, a visual memory, dynamic and forceful writing abilities was a great asset to the Literary Editor. He persisted and endured in his work habits till the very end.

Moderator:
Mr. Larry Hackett

When the 14 of us got together last September, it seemed that there was no way with all the ideas to publish a yearbook. Yet we were all inspired to produce an original book.

"Awareness through Communication providing Togetherness!"—this was it. This brought us together and added fuel to our burning enthusiasm. We became aware of the situation in which we needed unity; we began to exchange ideas, compromise, and create a new amalgamated idea which got us started. Without togetherness, these 200 pages would never have been published.

During the past year, many misfortunes and obstacles blocked our way. I lost all the Senior profiles, the photographer lost three rolls of film, and above all the thief of time, our greatest enemy "procrastination" haunted almost everyone. Mr. Hackett's advise, our friends' encouragement, and above all deadlines made us advance.

It has been a tradition that the editor writes an epilogue on the last page of the Forward. Every year when I read words like patience, sleepless nights, sweat, tears, bitterness, sarcasms, and deadlines, they had no direct impact nor meaning to me. Now I know what they mean. Yet I do not regret the hard and challenging Senior year. It will not just be a pleasant memory of our youth but will be a meaningful stepping-stone for our future. What we've brought to your eyes is not just a stack of paper bound in a hard brown cover but a fruitful blend of the staff's whole-hearted devotion, the benevolent donations from the parents, and above all the combined efforts of everyone involved under the theme ACT.
